Moving outreach online to reach under-resourced audiences: How COVID made our outreach more inclusive
Julee Farley, Phyllis Newbill, & Lisa McNair

What we did: We hosted 30-minute meetups between outreach providers and individual classrooms.
Reach a more geographically diverse audience to include students from remote under-resourced schools.

What we learned: Most problems were technical, more opportunities for student engagement, explain terms and concepts, advance information to prepare, pair content from the meetup with class content.

Thank you to Dr. Chelsea Lyles and Cody Klein for their assistance with this poster.